2011 Iowa Trails Summit

Join state, local and regional groups to promote outdoor trail recreation in Iowa at the state's second Trails Summit, June 16-18, in Cedar Falls/Waterloo. Registration is now open online at www.iowabicyclecoalition.org/IowaTrailsSummit for this comprehensive trails conference.

Who should attend? Planners, engineers, cities, counties, state organizations, bicyclists, mountain bikers, snowmobilers, canoeists, walkers, paddlers, runners, equestrians, trail enthusiasts and advocates, and the public can choose to attend all or part of the three days of events that involve a diverse group of trail organizations representing virtually every trail user group, including motorized and nonmotorized, equestrian and water sports.

What to expect at the Iowa Trails Summit?

Some of Iowa's leading experts on trail development and healthy communities will share their ideas on the challenges and opportunities trail organizations face in the coming years. The summit will include sessions with expert panelists moderated by leaders in the trails community. The panelists represent a cross-section of professionals, and each will present an innovative and interesting view of issues important to the future of Iowa trails, as well as participate in question and answer sessions.

Share your trail experiences.

The summit is another opportunity for interested parties to work together to preserve, protect and enhance the opportunities available for ourselves, our friends and families to experience Iowa's great outdoors, healthy activities and embrace a quality of life legacy that will pass to future generations.
