

IOWA GREAT RIVER ROAD

The Iowa Great River Road parallels the Mississippi River on the state's eastern border from Missouri to Minnesota, and is part of a 10-state route stretching from Louisiana to Minnesota. This 326-mile corridor traverses 10 Iowa counties from Keokuk at the south-eastern tip of Iowa to New Albin in the far northeast corner. Green and white pilot wheel highway markers, as well as red, white and blue America's Byways markers, show you the way along the Great River Road National Scenic Byway.

Travelers from around the world journey to Iowa to view the dramatic landscape of the Mississippi River limestone bluffs cut by glacial melt water in the north and the broad sandy flood plains in the south; to watch the soaring eagles and thousands of migrating geese and ducks; to seek out the sacred sites and mounds of early Native Americans at Effigy Mounds National Monument; and to watch commercial barges and recreational watercraft navigate the locks and dams on the river.

Visit the towns and cities along the route and discover a rich and vibrant history of this famous waterway. The Mississippi River's very existence greatly influenced the westward expansion of this country.
