

Introducing...a new way to recertify!

“Test-only day”

Do you have multiple certifications expiring this year, but a limited amount of time and travel budget? Are you an experienced technician who doesn't want to sit through a review session? If so, you may be interested in a new, recertification option.

There are “test-only” days scheduled when a technician may come into a testing location and take as many different recertification tests as they wish, in any order they wish between the hours of 9:00 am and 5:00 pm. No exams will be started after 3:00 pm. The exams will be proctored and the proctor will grade your exam upon completion.

There will be no review given and no questions answered during the test only days!
