WATERLOO, Iowa (KWWL) - Waterloo Regional Airport Director Keith Kaspari is retiring after being with the airport for nearly a decade.

Kaspari has been with the airport since 2014, but he says he is looking forward to the future.

Kaspari said, "We're going to move this airport forward to heights and lengths that we haven't seen before. And I'm encouraged to see what is going to happen by my successor in the coming months and years."

Kaspari's last day with the airport will be next Friday, January 26.
